

The Necktie and The Jaguar

BY KRYSTA GIBSON

REVIEWS

The Necktie and The Jaguar

A memoir to help you change your story and find fulfillment

By Carl Greer, PhD, PsyD

Chiron Publications

One can learn a great deal by reading other people's life stories. By experiencing other people's challenges, dilemmas, and triumphs, we are given ways to view and live our own. Carl Greer is a retired clinical psychologist and Jungian analyst, a businessman, and a shamanic practitioner, author, and philanthropist.

His memoir tells the story of his early life in a postwar, midwestern, middle-class upbringing tainted by a childhood tragedy that taught him to restrict his emotions. He leads us through the maze of his life where he had great business success as a wealth-builder and the president of an independent oil and gas company morphing to a career as a Jungian analyst.

The stories he tells are honest, brave, enlightening, and inspirational. At the end of each chapter, Greer asks questions of the reader and shows how Greer's life experiences relate to that of the reader. In some cases, what he learned applies easily to one's self. Other times a bit more digging might be called for; either way, excellent questions are posed and the answers provide personal insight.

If you're looking for a non-fiction human interest book that offers some spiritual guidance, then The Necktie and the Jaguar will fit the bill.

SHARE:

ABOUT AUTHOR

KRYSTA GIBSON

Krysta Gibson is publisher of "New Spirit Journal" as well as an author, spiritual teacher and mentor. To learn about her various services and programs visit anoasisforyoursoul.com.